Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 03 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Warm or very warm Thursday, thundery rain possible for Friday.

Today:
Any areas of mist, low cloud and fog soon clearing to leave a fine and dry day with some cloud at times. A warm day, or very warm in eastern areas. Maximum temperature 27 deg C (81 deg F).

Tonight:
A warm and humid night. Generally cloudy, with heavy thundery showers possibly developing later in the evening, continuing through the early hours. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
Cloudy on Friday, with outbreaks of thundery rain possible, especially for eastern areas. Cooler than previous days, especially in the west, but still feeling humid. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Largely fine, dry and warm through this period with sunny spells. However isolated showers are possible on Sunday and Monday. Some coastal fog possible, especially on Saturday and Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.